Fawzia Al-Rawi

Dr. Rosina-Fawzia Al-Rawi Al-Rifai was born in Baghdad and spent her childhood in Iraq and Lebanon. She holds a PhD in Oriental Studies and Islamic Sciences, and has written several books in Arabic, German, English, French and Spanish.

She completed her Arabic, Islamic and Ethnological studies at the Universities of Vienna and Cairo.

Fawzia Al-Rawi has been teaching Sufism with a special focus on Feminine Spirituality worldwide for over 20 years.

Born in Baghdad, Iraq, she learned as a child from her grandmother the expressive forms and deep wisdom of oriental belly-dancing.

She spent twelve years under the guidance of a Sufi master in Jerusalem, where she married, worked, had three children and developed in a way which enables her to accompany other human beings on the Sufi path in a very unique and beautiful fashion.

Fawzia Al-Rawi lives in Vienna with her husband and their three children.

Fawzia Al-Rawi's workshops, classes and training courses are based on knowledge drawn from psychology, spirituality, cultural anthropology and medicine. They are underpinned in particular by a body of knowledge known as Sufism, which has been collected and passed down over centuries, especially in Africa, the Middle East and Asia.

Dancing, meditation, breathing techniques, traditional Sufi-practices such as Zikr, Whirling or working with the Divine Names all focus on opening the heart and embedding oneself into the great universal laws, beyond egocentric and social norms, connecting body, soul and spirit.

In 2007, she set up a Center for Female Spirituality, and Sufism (Haus des Friedens / House of Peace) in Vienna, where seminars, workshops and personal support on the path to self-discovery are offered.

Additionally seminars and workshops are also offered via ZOOM.
